Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Project deployment begins soon

Installation of the first batch of TripSaver devices will begin soon. Victory Electric estimates the project will be completed by fall 2028. The installation will be completed in stages and include several structural replacements, further increasing resiliency throughout the project area. We have been working Sunflower Electric Power Corporation for cost analysis and other research to determine the best device placement, equipment coordination and optimal programming settings.

We're excited about this resiliency grant and how the project will benefit our member-owners and the Dodge City region. The project and the funds awarded will improve the resilience of our local energy infrastructure, enabling us to provide a more reliable and stable system for the entire community.

Resilient electrical systems recover more quickly from disruptions that might diminish the quality or continuity of electricity supply. Improving grid resiliency ensures that the communities Victory Electric serves will remain powered when problems occur. It also boosts the economic stability of regions by preventing prolonged power outages that disrupt businesses. Electric service improvements also increase the quality of life for Dodge City residents and the greater southwest Kansas region.

news release. Moran did not specify what progress entails, but he said the service acknowledged a Kansas Department of Agriculture group's conservation efforts.

A 2016 analysis determined that irrigators upstream from Quivira were infringing on its state water rights, which entitle it to more than 14,000 acrefeet of water each year, equivalent to about 4.6

billion gallons. Irrigators reduce the groundwater in Rattlesnake Creek, which flows into the refuge. Conservationists say lower flows threaten endangered species.

In 2024, the refuge reportedly used none of its allocated water for the first time since 2017, according to state water rights data. In 2023, it used 45 acre-feet.

U.S. Rep. Ron Estes, a Republican representing Kansas' 4th District, wrote a letter in February to U.S. Interior Secretary Doug Burgum, asking for assurance that the department wouldn't call for water allocation for Quivira.

"Agriculture is the basin's primary industry, generating millions of dollars in direct and indirect revenue," Estes said. "Losing the ability to irrigate crops would reduce these revenues by tens of millions of dollars, forcing many of these already struggling family-run farms to exit the industry entirely."
