accredited institutions, this legislation strengthens our commitment to workforce development and economic growth—ensuring that Kansas students have the resources they need to train for good-paying, in-demand jobs.

The Kansas Promise Scholarship is a proven investment in our state's future, but it must be fair and sustainable.

This bill maintains important guardrails by ensuring scholarship amounts stay within reasonable limits and are used only for necessary coursework. At the same time, it ensures that students from working families can still qualify, with income limits set at $100,000 for a family of two and $150,000 for a family of three. These scholarships are targeted to help Kansans who need them most—students who want to gain skills, contribute to their communities, and build careers here in Kansas. SB 44 expands the Kansas Promise Scholarship to more schools, giving students more educational choices.

At its core, SB 44 is about investing in Kansas talent and strengthening our economy. By expanding the Promise Scholarship to more institutions, we are giving students more choices while keeping Kansas competitive in workforce development. Businesses need a skilled workforce, and this bill ensures students can get the training they need without taking on crushing debt. As legislators, it's our job to remove barriers to opportunity, support hard-working Kansans, and invest in policies that create a strong future for our state. I am proud to support this expansion of the Kansas Promise Scholarship Program and look forward to seeing more students succeed because of it. By investing in workforce development, Kansas is building a stronger economy and skilled labor force. Students can now access more programs without taking on debt, ensuring they are job-ready after graduation.

SB 79 – SNAP Soda/Sugar Bill

Kansas taxpayers expect public assistance programs to be used responsibly, and Senate Bill 79 takes a commonsense step toward ensuring food assistance is spent on real nutrition. This bill directs the state to seek federal approval to prohibit the purchase of candy and soft drinks with food assistance dollars. SNAP (Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program) was designed to help low-income families afford nutritious food, not sugary treats that contribute to obesity, diabetes, and other health problems. This reform ensures that taxpayer dollars support better food choices, keeping the program aligned with its original purpose.

Kansas has the authority to request federal approval to implement this restriction, and SB 79 requires the state to pursue that option. Many hardworking Kansans believe food assistance should be a helping hand for those in need, not a subsidy for unhealthy food. This bill does not cut benefits or reduce eligibility—it simply prioritizes spending on essential groceries instead of unhealthy options. If other assistance programs have guardrails on how funds can be spent, there's no reason why food assistance should be any different. Kansas taxpayers expect public assistance programs to be used responsibly, and Senate Bill 79 takes a common-sense step toward ensuring food assistance is spent on real nutrition. This bill directs the state to seek federal approval to prohibit the purchase of candy and soft drinks with food assistance dollars.

At its core, this bill is about responsibility and respect for taxpayers. Kansans work hard to fund assistance programs, and they deserve to know that their money is being spent wisely. Limiting the use of food assistance for candy and soft drinks is not about punishing recipients—it's about promoting good nutrition, fiscal responsibility, and ensuring that these programs remain sustainable for future generations. I proudly support SB 79 as a common-sense step toward reforming public assistance and protecting taxpayer dollars.

SB 79 directs the state to seek federal approval to ban candy and soft drinks from SNAP purchases. This bill promotes fiscal responsibility and better nutrition without cutting benefits.

SB 250 – Right to Try Individualized Treatments Act

Kansans facing life-threatening or severely debilitating illnesses deserve every possible option in their fight for survival. That's why I strongly support Senate Bill 250 – the Right to Try for Individualized Treatments Act.

This legislation allows patients to access personalized, investigational treatments tailored to their genetic profile when no other options remain. For patients battling rare diseases, time is not on their side. Bureaucratic delays shouldn't stand between them and a potential treatment that could extend or improve their lives. By allowing manufacturers to provide individualized therapies to eligible patients, this bill ensures that Kansans have the right to try every available medical option when facing the fight of their lives.

This legislation removes government roadblocks while maintaining important safeguards. Patients who seek these treatments must have exhausted all FDA-approved options, received a physician's recommendation, and provided informed consent before moving forward. Hospitals, insurers, and providers are not forced to cover or provide these treatments—this bill simply allows manufacturers to offer them. It also protects healthcare providers from penalties for recommending these options and shields families from liability if a patient passes away during treatment. This is about giving hope, not false promises—about removing barriers, not creating mandates.

At its core, SB 250 is about freedom—the freedom for patients to make choices about their own care. If a

Kansan is fighting for their life, they should not have to beg for permission to try a treatment that may help.

Government should not stand in the way of medical innovation or the pursuit of hope. Doctors and patients— not bureaucrats—should decide what treatments are worth trying. This bill reflects Kansas values: medical freedom, and the right to fight for every chance at life. I am proud to support this critical legislation that gives patients and their families one more option when all others have run out. SB 250 gives terminally ill Kansans the freedom to try cutting-edge, personalized treatments.

SCR 1602 – Asking Gov Kelly to Enforce Trump Immigration Laws

Kansas must take a firm stand in support of law and order, and that's why I strongly back Senate Concurrent Resolution 1602, which urges Governor Laura Kelly to fully cooperate with the Trump administration in enforcing federal immigration laws. Illegal immigration places serious burdens on public safety, health, and resources, fueling crises like human trafficking, fentanyl overdoses, and criminal activity. As states across the country work to support border security efforts, Kansas must make it clear that we stand with the rule of law and will not obstruct efforts to deport illegal immigrants, especially those who have committed crimes.

This effort is not just a partisan issue—it's a matter of public safety. The bipartisan support for the Laken Riley Act, which our entire Kansas congressional delegation backed, demonstrates that both sides recognize the dangers posed by illegal immigration. The Trump administration's historic border operation is prioritizing the removal of criminals who entered our country illegally. Many states are stepping up to assist with border security and enforcement, and Kansas needs to be part of this effort. Governor Kelly should use her authority, including deploying the Kansas National Guard as needed, to support federal immigration enforcement and border security.

At its core, SCR 1602 is about protecting Kansans, upholding the rule of law, and ensuring our state does not become a haven for illegal immigration. Ignoring immigration laws weakens public trust, strains resources, and makes our communities less safe. Kansas has always stood for law and order, and it's time to send a clear message that we will fully cooperate with the federal government to enforce immigration laws, secure our borders, and keep our state safe. I am proud to stand behind this resolution and will continue fighting for policies that prioritize security, accountability, and the well-being of Kansans. Governor Kelly should use her authority, including the National Guard, to help secure our borders and uphold the rule of law.
