Booster Club banquet offers intimate evening for attendees

The fall Booster Club banquet Monday, November 2, saw a smaller turnout than anticipated. It is possible that the poor weather discouraged attendance, which was unfortunately the case for this writer, who stayed home due to the storm and a personal illness. Those in attendance enjoyed a delicious homemade enchilada dinner from Arculeta's, served with beans, rice and various potluck sides. The intimate setting allowed guests more time to visit and relax, providing a welcome break from the hustle and bustle of the outside world.

Currently, awards given are not available but watch for a future article about that.
